Latour divests its holding in Terratech

Investment AB Latour (publ) has today, through its wholly-owned subsidiary Latour-Gruppen AB, divested its entire shareholding in the part-owned holding Terratech. Buyer is the Swedish investment company Solix, which at the same time also acquires all the shares in Terratech from other owners. Solix is a long-term investor of Nordic industrial companies who can provide Terratech good conditions for continuing growth.

The divestment has derived from the fact that part of the sellers wished to find new owners to the company. The transaction will give Latour a return of about 300 per cent.
